

PSI POWERS: DESCRIPTION AND CLASSIFICATION

INTRODUCTION

Psyas are capable of many Powers and each Psya can control his Powers and apply intensities in different degrees. These degrees correspond to “how much” their SEEP – Super Entity Enti-Psi – has grown compared to Zero Level (which corresponds to SEEP for Psynegs – for further aspects and scientific explanations on the physical nature of SEEP and the Enti-Psi, read “Psya Theory by Kinst-Meidesson – Basic Concepts”).

Several years before the Ordo Excubiarum was founded, a couple of experienced scholars of PSI phenomena, Nang Kro and Sam Tannai, came to conclude from their accurate statistical analyses on data pertaining to a whole Psya generation that these Powers never appear randomly: all Psyas have abilities and are capable of applying more or less powerfully the abilities we consider “basic”, such as empathy and telepathy. Moreover, the range of Powers and their intensity grow according to the PSI power of each Psya. This increase corresponds to a set and unchanging order.

Therefore a telepathic individual might not be telekinetic, however not only will a telekinetic always be telepathic but he will also be able to apply his telepathy more powerfully.

After studying specifically this issue, it turned out that it was possible to tune the degree of voluntary control over PSI Powers and the inborn PSI Powers could be called up more intensely, although no new powers could ever be acquired.

It was therefore clear that:

- a) each PSI Power needs at least a minimum Degree of PSI strength for it to be called up;
- b) each PSI Power includes or is based on Powers of lower strength;
- c) each individual cannot acquire more Powers than he is genetically allowed.

Consequently to these extremely important discoveries, the two scientists did not find it difficult to study and catalogue the Powers and their relative PSI intensities. They therefore made a table that allows you to identify each Psya. This table is now universally used and it is called: “Standard Kro-Tannai Table for PSI Degrees”.

These studies also led to determining scientifically two more aspects that scientists and philosophers had greatly discussed.

The first aspect concerns the fact that Psyas can manipulate the Enti-Psi to generate a form of PSI energy, which can power specifically designed machines, such as the Mental Cages, the Time Protection Bubbles, and the PSI weapons, to react with psychoreactive material, such as psychopolymers and to operate the psychoreactive nanomachines (Psynoids). Scientific knowledge currently does not allow us to store it, except for short periods and that is why the Mediators must keep on supplying power to the Holy Machines in the Fortress.

The second is the fact that the essence of human beings – the SEEP – can voluntarily break its bond to its body and can move “in the air” in four-dimension space-time. This activity must be limited in time: the vital essence cannot untie its bond to a physical body for more than a few hours, otherwise it gets annihilated and scatters out once and for all.

Soul, Spirit, Conscience, Mind, Psyche: all these words are used to define what we today identify as SEEP, and which practically is every individual’s essence, his self conscience and his load of experience and memories; to put it in a nutshell, what everyone “is” apart from his mere physical part.

PSI TERMINOLOGY

You should be aware that man had already experienced PSI Powers even before the Mutagen Wars, and some individuals were capable of calling them up more or less willingly. If you read history in these terms you can notice that, apart from numberless frauds, some individuals were actually using their powers and they have been “labelled” as sorcerers, alchemists, foreseeers, oracles and so forth. Today we call these individuals “Latent Psyas” as opposed to “Conscious Psyas” which are capable of recognising and using these energies consciously.

Therefore people have often used many different ways to indicate the same Power or the same application or some sign of the below-mentioned powers. Today we can scientifically verify and reproduce these Powers.

Take for instance clairvoyance whose definition is “being able to receive information about people or objects, near or far, without using the normal senses”. It is actually the sign of several powers, such as Psyakinesis, or teleempathy/telepathy, or the O.B.E. (Out of Body Experience).

Levitation is no more than a form of telekinesis, whereas possession is the sign of a forceful psyatransfer on the hosting mind instead of being due to some demon, as previously everyone always assumed.

This action can lead to xenoglossy, or the ability to speak languages you do not know. This is due to the knowledge that the hosting mind shares with the visitor’s mind. The hosting individual may not be aware of the visitor.

Let’s now list the powers we can scientifically recognise.

■ TELEEMPATHY

Ability to transmit (in other words to induce in third parties) and/or receive (or read passively) feelings and moods from and to other Psya or Psynege individuals.

■ TELEPATHY

Ability to transmit and/or receive (or read passively) someone’s thoughts in understandable terms from and to other Psyas or Psyneges.

■ TELEKINESIS

It is sometimes called psychokinesis, and it represents someone’s ability to physically move matter in space simply by using Psi energy. This can be done against contrasting gravitational pull or other forces applied on the subject.

■ PSYAKINESIS

The ability break the bonds of the vital essence (therefore the soul, spirit or however you may want to call it) from the physical body and project it in three-dimensional space, where it can move as it prefers without any bond to the physical laws normally applied.

The vital essence can stay in this condition of physical “freedom” for a time ranging from two to five hours, before it must return within a body or else is doomed to annihilation.

It is not possible to perform psyakinesis in the time dimension: this sort of movement always requires a hosting mind as a destination (see time mindstalking)

■ PSYATRANSFER

Special kind of psyakinesis, which allows the vital essence to migrate within a hosting either Psya or Psynege mind, even an animal’s. Psyatransfer takes place only if the hosting mind is conscious and willing to host the external vital essence. In this case, the hosting mind is still in control of its body but can interact emotionally and speak with the external vital essence.

■ MINDSTALKING

Special kind of psyakinesis that allows a vital essence to migrate inside a hosting mind, whether Psya or Psynege, maybe an animal’s.

We refer to mindstalking only if the hosting mind is not willing and/or conscious that it is hosting a vital essence. The hosting mind is to all effects replaced by the hosted vital essence which has complete control over the hosting body’s moving capabilities and which can freely access the host’s memory of behaviours and knowledge.

When a forceful psyatransfer ends, in other words when the vital essence leaves the hosting mind, the latter regains all its resources and loses all memory of what happened during the whole psyatransfer period. Mindstalking can be everlasting if the Psya using this power is powerful enough. Therefore the vital essence of the Psya can break all the bonds with its physical body and bind itself with the hosting body. The original vital essence is annihilated and its memory is “absorbed” by the new guest.

■ TIME MINDSTALKING

Special kind of psyakinesis which allows a vital essence to migrate not only in three-dimensional space but also in the time dimension, only to past Subjective Presents (see the Time Theory for more information). The vital essence can therefore migrate within a hosting mind, whether Psya or Psynege and also an animal’s mind, anywhere and in any past Subjective Present.

As for the rest, the same applies as described in the explanation for mindstalking.

What we said about permanent mindstalking still applies here (in this case it will become permanent time mindstalking).

■ DEMATERIALIZATION

Ability to unbind atoms within a molecule without damaging the molecule and therefore to disintegrate the object.

This operation does not break any components within the atom and therefore it does not imply setting free any atomic energy: it means splitting each molecule into atoms and into the sub-particles which make up the molecule. This is an irreversible process which leads any living creature to physical and spiritual death.

■ MATERIALIZATION

Ability to create objects by manipulating matter mentally at its atomic level.

Notice that living beings cannot be Materialized since the vital essence cannot be “built” simply by joining atoms in a predetermined pattern.

Note: it is not possible to “re-materialize” either objects or living creatures that have been previously Dematerialised.

This phenomenon, usually called “teletransport”, is not physically possible because it would not be possible to “control” all the atoms of a broken up object, then move them by telekinesis and then rejoin them in the same pattern but in a different place.

Some Psya individuals claim they can teletransport an object but they only dematerialise the object and later materialise an object which only externally is the same as the previous one. The second object is not really the one previously dematerialised: the atoms from the first object have been scattered around and different atoms have materialized into the second object.

Probably the birth of myths and legends during past ages about beings like the Golems and Gargoyles was caused by a joint application of Materialization and Telekinesis. Any Psya of a medium-high degree can mould raw matter and/or join parts of organic matter and inorganic matter and control by telekinesis the product it has created.

This product is not a living creature with its own will: it is just a mass of matter that the Psya moves according to his will. This can fool an observer who is not knowledgeable, and it may seem as if this product is a self-sufficient living creature.

As a matter of fact, moving a product requires consuming as much energy and concentration as the product is big and complex. All the matter that makes up the product returns to its original shape if whoever created it stops concentrating or runs out of strength.

■ FORESIGHT

It is sometimes called clairvoyance, palmistry, or necromancy when it claims it relies on demons or dead souls in order to perceive. This is the ability to sense events belonging to a future Subjective Present compared to the Subjective Present of whoever is using this power.

This Power is hardly ever under control and the results you get are often fragmented, they can be interpreted in several ways and they depend on personal experience. There are no records of anyone ever being able to foresee anything more distant than a few days from his Subjective Present.

Nor has it ever been demonstrated that anyone can “choose” which future Subjective Present it wishes to perceive. Not even the most powerful Psya, the ones of the Tenth Degree on the Kro-Tannai scale, have more than a limited control over this Power.

■ PSI ENERGY RELEASE

As we said in the first part, the most powerful Psyas can release PSI energy by manipulating Enti-Psi. The energy they release can be of several kinds, starting from a pure energy flow which can supply power to machines or interact with psychoreactive material, or concentrated energy which may be used as a weapon or as a shield for “fending off” the enemy’s psychic attacks.

However, using this Power without being able to control it can be very dangerous, even for the Psya himself who is using it. The power of the PSI energy is enormous and if it gets out of control it can be fatal. For this reason, the Psyas of Medium Degrees tend to use only Spontaneous releases when interacting with Psychoreactive material and with Psynoids and leave the Higher Degrees only to use this energy for powering machines and weapons.
